Scott named ARRM director

Kelvin Scott has been appointed director of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice's Administrative Review and Risk Management Division, effective August 1. The ARRM supports the agency's mission by monitoring and identifying areas of potential risk or liability, and facilitating action and policy development to maintain safety, accountability and efficiency.

Scott has more than 29 years' experience in criminal justice, beginning his career in 1986 as a correctional officer at the Ellis Unit. He advanced through the security ranks to serve as senior warden at the Glossbrenner, Stevenson and Beto units, as well as senior warden for offender transportation. In 2013,

Scott was promoted to director of the Correctional Institutions Division's Region II, where he was responsible for oversight of 13 correctional facilities.

During the August meeting of the Texas Board of Criminal Justice, TDCJ Executive Director Bryan Collier commented on how Scott's criminal justice career has prepared him to take on the role of division director saying, "His experience, strong operational background and attention to detail will serve the ARRM Division well."

Scott received his bachelor's degree in Corrections and Criminology from Sam Houston State University in 1991. ●
