

An employee publication of the
Texas Department of Criminal Justice

CJAD co-hosts Community Supervision Summit

In February the Community Justice Assistance Division (CJAD) and Correctional Management Institute of Texas (CMIT) co-hosted the Community Supervision Summit at the Capitol in Austin. During the two-day work session almost 200 Community Supervision and Corrections Department (CSCD) staff members, CJAD employees and other probation stakeholders gained knowledge and tools to help integrate evidence-based practices into their organizational culture and daily work responsibilities. The Summit will be followed with additional training opportunities, as well as regional follow-up meetings. ●

Community Justice Assistance Division (CJAD) Director Carey Welebob welcomes attendees to the Community Supervision Summit in Austin.