

MAL selects three deputy directors

In October and November, three TDCJ veteran employees were selected as deputy directors for the Manufacturing, Agribusiness and Logistics Division. Ron Hudson was named deputy division director over Agribusiness, Land and Minerals; Kirk Moss was chosen to manage Texas Correctional Industries, and Robert Cade will oversee Transportation and Supply.

Ron Hudson

Ron Hudson has 25 years of experience with TDCJ, beginning as a correctional officer at the Huntsville Unit and eventually holding key positions within Texas Correctional Industries and Transportation and Supply. His most recent position was as assistant director of Laundry, Food Service and Supply within the Correctional Institutions Division.

In his role as deputy division director for Agribusiness, Land and Minerals, Hudson's responsibilities include management oversight of the agency's land and mineral resources, along with several food processing plants and livestock production facilities that provide vegetables, eggs and meat products used to feed the offender population.

Ron holds a Bachelor of Business Administration degree from Sam Houston State University.

Kirk Moss has over 23 years of experience with TDCJ. He began his career in 1994 as an Accountant II for TCI and eventually served key roles in CID's Plans and Operations Department. He most recently served as director of the Office of Incident Management.

Kirk Moss

As Texas Correctional Industries deputy director, Moss will oversee 33 agency facilities that produce goods and provide services for sale to state and local government agencies and a work-training program which offers offenders the chance to gain work experience and marketable skills for their eventual transition back into society.

Moss has a bachelor's degree in Business Administration from Sam Houston State University.

Robert Cade

Robert Cade has more than 24 years of experience with the TDCJ. He began his career in 1993 as a correctional officer and has held key supervisory positions within Texas Correctional Industries. He most recently served as a Manager I for Transportation and Supply.

As deputy director for Transportation and Supply, Cade will have oversight of thousands of agency vehicles used for freight transportation throughout the state.

MAL Director Bobby Lumpkin congratulated Hudson, Moss and Cade on their recent promotions saying, "Each of these three employees brings considerable knowledge and experience with agency operations to their new positions. This, combined with their strong leadership qualities, will serve the division and the agency well." ▲
