Davis named CID Director

Lorie Davis has been named the director of TDCJ's Correctional Institutions Division effective May 1.

Davis started as a correctional officer at the Ellis I Unit in 1988. During her 27-year career she has served as senior warden at eleven CID units, gaining experience in a wide assortment of correctional operations, including substance abuse treatment, inpatient mental health care, and medical and maximum-security facilities for male and female offender populations. She has served as CID Region III Director, director of Correctional Training and Staff Development, CID Management Operations Deputy Director and, most recently, deputy director of CID Support Operations.

Lorie Davis

Davis holds a bachelor's degree in political science and business administration from Midwestern State University in Wichita Falls and her master's in public administration from Texas Tech University in Lubbock. She serves as president of the Texas Public Employees Association and treasurer of the Texas Corrections Association.

Announcing the selection, TDCJ Executive Director Brad Livingston commended Davis, saying, "Lorie brings strong operational oversight and leadership abilities to this position and will serve our agency well."

Davis replaces former CID Director Bill Stephens who is retiring after 35 years of service with the agency. ●
