When deciding whether or not a commercial driver should be tested after an accident, use the following checklist:

#	Question	Yes	No
1	Did the accident involve a commercial driver?	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
2	Did the accident involve a commercial motor vehicle?	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
If you answered Yes to questions #1 and #2, go on to question #3 & #4. If you answered Yes to question #1 and No to question #2, no testing shall be required. If you answered No to question #1 and #2, no testing shall be required.
3	Did the accident involve loss of human life?	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
4	Did the commercial driver involved in the accident receive a citation?	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
5	Did the accident result in bodily injury to any person who required treatment away from the scene of the accident?	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
6	Did the accident result in disabling damage to any vehicle involved in the accident?	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>

If you answered yes to question #3, #4, #5 or #6, then the commercial driver(s) involved in the accident shall be tested for alcohol and drugs. Alcohol tests shall be administered as soon as practicable. No alcohol test shall be administered after 8 hours have passed. If this deadline is not met, the reason for the delay shall be documented. Drug tests shall be administered within 32 hours of the accident. If this deadline is not met, the reason for the delay shall be documented. No drug test shall be administered after 32 hours have passed.

Remind the commercial driver who is subject to alcohol and drug testing that he or she shall remain available for such testing after the accident. Failure to do this shall be treated as a refusal to test. In addition, any commercial driver subject to a post-accident test shall not consume alcohol for eight hours after the accident or until after an alcohol test is administered, whichever comes first.

Keep in mind that nothing in this document is intended to delay necessary medical attention for injured people following an accident, or to prohibit a driver from leaving the scene of an accident to obtain assistance or necessary medical care.

If a commercial driver is administered a post-accident alcohol and drug test which is also documented as a reasonable suspicion test, the commercial driver shall be removed from duty until the test results are known.
